

Audit report main remarks 01.09.22:

Social relations

- Positive adult contact every day

Status:

New efforts:

Adjust effort:

Maintained effort: The observations show that the educational staff are welcoming and responsive to the children, as well as available and offering their help. The inspection experienced that the children were always in social communities.

2. Inclusion and community

- Child and youth communities for all

Status:

New effort:

Adjust effort: Various options of playing are available in Rooftop's common rooms. The inspection observed that the staff were aware of the children who were passively walking around, as not all of them had someone to play with. The inspection did not experience any conflicts among the children or with adults. The educational staff set the framework for the children's social communities. In Rooftop, the children have the opportunity to establish friendships across age, gender and culture.

Maintained effort:

3. The efforts in language

- opportunities through language

Status:

New effort:

Adjust effort: In Rooftop, several of the children are bilingual or multilingual, everything is said in Danish and only when there is a need for it is spoken in English. The staff were appreciative and often asked open and curious questions.

Maintained effort:

Overall assessment and follow-up:

Rooftop is an institution that consciously works with educational learning environments. On the playground, a learning environment had been created where the children had the opportunity to play with sensory motor skills, i.a. by walking on their sensory path, the opportunity to run and play with sand. The inspector observed that the children were good at distributing themselves on the playground and tried self-organized games, which, however, quickly disintegrated. The inspection did not see that the children were involved in daily tasks and routines. There was a clear structure in relation to activities, and thus it was predictable for the children what was going to happen. There are many square meters in Rooftop and they are all used, in the morning the children from Rainbow are out in small groups. The children cannot help but feel a community.
